

Nothing

Wake up beside what once was
Hard to go out just because
Nothing is left of it now
Try to explain it somehow
Nothing between those two ears
Except the white bliss and the fear
You wish that something would change
Maturity don't come with age
Strange how you can't stomach this
All that you own now is his

Wake up beside what once was
My mind's either turned or is lost
So when you lie with him
And when you lie to him
Please don't call me
I tell you this for free
When you lie with him
And when you lie to him
Don't contact me
Nothing was here you see
