

The World I See In You

Margaret Becker

No one could ever make me doubt it
No one could make it be more true
Written in a stone, and set in cement
Are all the things I feel for You
When I look into Your eyes, I see the love that I need
When I look into Your world I see everything I'd like to be

I believe in, I believe in, I believe in
The world I see in You
I'd like to live in, I'd like to live in, I'd like to live in
The world I see in You
No back is ever turned away in Your world
No hand is ever pulled away
Love is the law, the jury and judge
And the only debt there is to pay
When I look into Your world I see a land of Mercy
When I look into Your world I see the place I'd like to be

I believe in, I believe in, I believe in
The world I see in you
Got to have it, I got to have it, I got to have it
The world I see in You
In Your world I've yet to see
A man too far, a mark too deep
A prodigal or refugee
That could not find shelter in You
I don't believe in politics, no heavy handed moralists
Right wing supremacists, lame brain rhetoric
Cultural genocide, judgment from the justified
Your world isn't there
Your world isn't there
I believe in love
I believe in truth
I believe in mercy
And the passion of pursuit
