

Danger At My Door

Mark Chesnutt

There's danger at my door and I don't need no more
Of her danger at my door - all I've been livin' for
Was for her to love me more than she ever loved anybody before
But she broke my heart oh so many times and I'm trying to fight
My will and send her home tonight
There's danger at my door and I don't need no more
Of her danger at my door

Too many times I've chased a false alarm
Too many lonely nights let down my guard
Too many memories make this moment extra special hard
'cause all that I can remember is laying there in her arms
There's danger at my door and I don't need no more
Of her danger at my door

I finally fall asleep alone again
But I know my day has not come to an end
'cause somewhere in the night she'll try to find her way back i n
And all that I can hope for is for strength to be my friend
