

(I Think) I've Finally Broken Mine

Mark Chesnutt

One more chance, Lord, I've had so many
The last time you said next time it's the end
But I kept on throwin' rocks at the window of our future
Then beggin' your forgiveness once again

Now here I am with your letter in my hand
Through the tears I see the truth in every line
After all the times I've broken your heart
I think I've finally broken mine

You've stood toe to toe and gone the distance
Never givin' up on me without a fight
Believing that I'll change, and be the man you see in me
Instead of chasin' good-time shadows through the night

Now here I am with your letter in my hand
Through the tears I see the truth in every line
After all the times I've broken your heart
I think I've finally broken mine
I think I've finally broken mine...