

Daylight In the Nocturnal House

Mark Lanegan

Watching the smoke from the factory float
With my back to the rain rider
From under the snow
I'm out of the grave spider
Didn't you know?
I'm gonna send you to heaven

Leaning my shoulder into a wall
Covered in rainwater
When somebody calls
It's somebody's granddaughter
She'll pay to make someone crawl
And then send them to heaven

Watching the dice getting wildly thrown
Killing the pain rider
That everyone knows
Ain't it a shame spider
I'm gonna take what you owe
And then you're going to heaven
Then you're going to heaven

Watching the smoke from the factory float
With my back to the rain rider
From under the snow
I'm out of the grave spider
Didn't you know?
I'm gonna send you to heaven
Gonna send you to heaven

I'm out of the grave spider
I'm gonna send you to heaven
I'm gonna send you to heaven
