

I'm Not Blaming You

Marty Robbins

She might meet you secretly when she's lonely
And the world you may know may be so heavenly
No she isn't yours you take her tenderly
Oh but I'm not blaming you I'm blaming me

When loneliness stepped in she stepped out on me
And her heart crossed your path mistakenly
I lost her in your arms temporarily
Oh but I'm not blaming you I'm blaming me

I'm blaming me it was I who let her down
I made it easy for you cause I never was around
I keep forgiving her it's not her fault you see
But I'm not blaming you I'm blaming me
But I'm not blaming you I'm blaming me