

Jenny

Marty Robbins

What are friends for, Jenny
What do friends fulfill
Why are friendships stronger
And the love affair I remember still
What are friends for, Jenny
If it's not to share little moments talking
And little days of care

What are friends for, Jenny
If it's not to share little moments talking
And little days of care

Maybe, I could love you
Maybe, I could try
And then, we'd be like any lovers
And the love affair could die
So, if I want to hold you
Gently in my care
It's just because I almost loved you
And that's why friends are there

If I write you lovesongs, Jenny, understand
It's just because I almost loved you
And it's better we're still friends