

Here Are We

Mary Hopkin

Here are we, two waves upon the sea
Borne on different oceans, you and me
Tossed and blown, we're longing to be free
Flowing hard against the tide
One day our love won't be denied
No, oh no

Here are we, two stones upon the sand
Cast aside, we lie here where we land
Fate, he holds us in his careless hand
Throwing you a million miles from me
Leaving us in pain and misery
I'm crying and I'm trying...

To find my way from here
I need to find my love somehow
I feel uneasy now, I need to find my love somehow

Here are we, two birds upon the wing
Can you hear the song I try to sing?
Is there no end to this wandering
Flying high, I'm searching everywhere
But could it be that you're no longer there?
It's tearing me apart
This fear that's burning in my heart

Don't know where, where my love has gone
Don't know where, I've been searching for so long
It's your love that keeps me holding on
When I find you, I'll never lose you again
Not again, no, no
