Savannah

I loved you like my own though I never
Never never could make you mine
I loved you like my own though I never
Never never could
Her eyes so hard and blue
And I never could break through

The lights were flickering
Down where the cicadas sing
But I knew you were the ghost
That sails out of the coast

Savannah

I loved you like my own though I never
Never never could make you mine
I loved you like my own though I never
Never never could
Her eyes so hard and blue
And I never could break through

You eased my mind for a while
Long enough to steal my heart
Until eastern seaboard storms
Held you as we fell apart

Savannah

I loved you like my own though I never
Never never could make you mine
I loved you like my own though I never
Never never could
Her eyes so hard and blue
And I never could break through

But I knew you were the ghost
That sails out of the coast

Savannah

I loved you like my own though I never
Never never could make you mine
I loved you like my own though I never
Never never could
Her eyes so hard and blue
But I never could break through
