

I Don't Recognize You

Meja

You've got lines across your face
I can see that you've been crying
Memories to be erased
And nasty old stuff you been hiding

You say it does not matter now
It's all so different from were I stand
But here I am
And I don't recognize you

It's like you're living without reason
Now what's the good in waking up
If there's no one there please you
And no one's there to make you stop

You say it does not matter now
It's all so different from were I stand
But here I am
And I don't recognize you
