Bleed

Meshuggah

Beams of fire sweep through my head Thrusts of pain increasingly engaged Sensory receptors succumb I am no one now - only agony

My crimson liquid so frantically spilled - The ruby fluid of life unleashed

Ripples ascend to the surface of my eyes Their red pens drawing at random, at will A myriad pains begotten in their wake - The bastard spawn of a mutinous self

The regurgitation of my micro nemesis - Salivating red at the prospect of my ruin, my doom

Malfunction the means for its ascent Bloodletting the stringent voice to beckon my soul So futile any resisting tension As death-induced mechanics propel its growth

The implement, the device of my extinctionThe terminating clockwork of my gleeful baneThe definitive scourge of its mockeryThe end-art instruments lethality attained

Heed - it commands. Heed my will Bleed - it says. Bleed you will

Falling into the clarity of undoing Scornful gods haggle for my soul Minds eye flickers and vellicates as I let go Taunting whispers accompany my deletion

A sneering grin, the voice of my reaper - Chanting softly the song of depletion