

There are sometimes in my life
everything feels right don't pay attention i give it all
there are sometimes in my life
everything feels wrong i'm hearing voices they get me down there are sometimes in my life
everything feels right
there are sometimes in my life
everything feels wrong
and they say all good things come to an end i say fuck it they barely even started drink to find comfort, drink to forget eleven years later it hasn't helped yet and they say always think about your future well i don't care i'm living for the moment worries for later those things don't phase me until they start forcing direction waiting for the day searching for a way gotta find some place that i don't feel failure what they what they say doesn't make much sense to me
what they what they say it puts me in a state of decline what they say what they say its always whats best for them when you teach me how to feel thats when i turn myself off