

Line by line the artifacts spilling across a western world awas
h in imagery and apathy entrenched... we dine together in here on stark, immiserating axioms, make ou r beds, dig our graves...
bled from this cold irrationality onto the corpse of a world...
we never asked for...