

Seven Friends

Miss Montreal

A week has seven days so you need seven friends
You tell where it starts and whenever it ends
You better find them now before it's too late

You can't buy me love, that is what they say
Well, I bought it seven times, didn't have to pay
Went back for seven more but now it's too late

One's in the middle on four and the other's on five
I hope I have seven friends left on the day that I die
So I say beep beep, little more time in the middle
Buy, break everything back into my riddle
You need seven friends to do whatever you like

Whatever you like

If you had a crappy life, had nothing to do
I hope you friends will go to heaven with you
You better find them now before it's too late

You can call me names or whatever you want to
I would do nothing with or without you
I would make another day and now it's too late

One's in the middle on four and the other's on five
I hope I have seven friends left on the day that I die
So I say beep beep, little more time in the middle
Buy, break everything back into my riddle
You need seven friends to do whatever you like

Whatever you like (buy break seven days, buy break seven friends)
Whatever you like
Whatever you like

One's in the middle on four and the other's on five
I hope I have seven friends left on the day that I die

Oooh

One's in the middle on four and the other's on five
I hope I have seven friends left on the day that I die
So I say beep beep, little more time in the middle
Buy, break everything back into my riddle
You need seven friends to do whatever

You need seven friends to do whatever you
You need seven friends to do whatever you like
Whatever you like
