Transcend

Mnemic

Holes in the fabric of the soul Like whispers from a rotting corpse The cancer of your carelessness Swimming so treacherous

The falling motionless into venture If only I could transcend away

Into a place where all emotions fade away Escape from an animated system of imperfections The world runs empty of ways

I'm swimming through this nightmare Where black waves pull me under

Black is the fuel running through this membrane Frozen corpse eyes starring blind Only smiling faces trapped in the grave How long before this silence fades

I'm swimming through this nightmare Where black waves pull me under

In another place where memories will fade Choking underneath these waves Why have you forsaken me I can't see any future anymore

If I could just transcend away Into a place where all emotions will fade

Transcend Transcend

I'm swimming through this nightmare Where black waves pull me under