

Black Roses

Moist

Damage yourself
You're not the only one that feels this violence Everyone else they feel the weight of every thorn through skin so hard
The bleeding starts it comes again
Nothing changes
I will lay black roses down
And I'm not here to save you
I will lay this body
Lay your body down
Never could fight
All of the feelings
how they'd laid you open wide
We are undone even the smallest tear that pulls you from inside
The bleeding starts it comes again
Nothing changes
I will lay black roses down
And I'm not here to save you
I will lay this body
Lay your body down
Damage yourself damage yourself
I will lay black roses down
And I'm not here to save you
I will lay you in the ground
And I'm not here to save you
I will lay your body down
Lay your body down
I will lay your body down
