

The World Is A Game

Mystery

Do you know what we think of your attitude?
Open your eyes

Do you feel all the fear that shadowed their eyes?
And all that remains of their lives

And so the world is a game
And I'm just a pawn in your hand

You hold the world in your hand
Like a child with a Ball
Do you realize?

You point a finger then you say
One word and we fall
But who's the winner after all

And so the world is a game
The Joy and the pain of our time

Remember these pawns all have names
The rules are the same in their lives

In the end
All you need is our gratitude
We shut our eyes

And so the world is a game

Working on the grand design
For some it almost feels Divine
Sipping the last drop of their wine
For this world is just a game

Standing in the line of fire
The heroes' flags flying high
Waving way above their pride
Can anyone win that game?

The world is a game

And so the world is a game
The Joys and the pains of our time

When you reap the loss and the gain
Then all that remains is our lives
...is our lives

And so the world is a game
The Joys and the pains of our time

When you reap the loss and the gain
Then all that remains is our time
...is our time
