

The Lonely War

Neverending White Lights

She's awake by the sound in her head
And I would take you over the rest
Only to bury you
Only to bury you

If I was a lonely man
Maybe I would see you again
You would understand

And I said lay on me wait on me
I was afraid
I was afraid

And I've always been always bad
Who cares
Who cares
Now

It's just the love that dies anyways
I'm awake
With a hole in my head
And I miss every moment I'm dead
Only to bury you

If I was a lonely man
Maybe I would see you again
You would understand

And I said lay on me wait on me
I was afraid
I was afraid

And I've always been always bare
Who cares
Who cares

And it all makes me bare
(See the city light up on her face)
And it all makes me bare
(See the stars and the light on her face)
And it all makes me bare

It's just the love that dies anyways
(It's just the love that dies anyways)
It's just the love that dies anyways
And it gets me gets me
I was afraid
I was afraid
Waiting for me
Who cares
Who cares
And I've always been always bare
(See the city light up on her face)
