White Light

New Model Army

It's another heroes' sunset I'm riding on the Great North Road Coiled and tensed in wonder As the land turns burning gold Out in the sun, out in the wind I'm nearly ready now to come back again

We are silent in this worship Beneath the breathing of the summer trees They sparkle in a dance of silver As the light falls through the leaves Out in the sun, out in the wind I'm nearly ready now to come back again

So from the wisdom of trances, the armies of Jesus To the Voodoo possessions, the different disguises At dusk in the mountains, all bowed in surrender A thousand voices calling out a million names We knelt as we lit the candles Around the little shrine Take me back to the white light I want to go there again Out in the sun, out in the wind I'm nearly ready now to come back again
