At the end of the day there's no food on our plate So we beg and we steal for we know love is real And if we don't take a chance in a spare sideways glance These are all the chains I wanted to justify the things I do And when we kiss we speak as one And in a single breath this world is gone And when we kiss we speak as one With a single breath this world is gone It's a crisis I know at the end of the show People change but we don't falter 'cause we know love is real This is no place to shiver so get up off the grass You were once the main attraction but all that's in the past How much is free for me and you? I'm on my knees, I am a fool But when we kiss we speak as one With a single breath this world is gone This world is gone How could I fail to give her when she cried such a lot? People change but we don't falter 'cause we use what we've got And when we kiss we speak as one With a single breath this world is gone And when we kiss we speak as one With a single breath this world is gone This world is gone This world is gone This world is gone
