

Every Child (Deserves a Home)

NewSong

To be remembered on your birthday
Feel a father's kiss goodnight
To have a mother wrap her arms around you
And say it's gonna be alright

These are the things we take for granted
That every child should know and love
It's simply heaven's way of telling them
They are precious in this world
Precious in this world

Every child deserves a home
Every child deserves to hear the words, "You are not alone."
Every life on earth is sacred
Every heart is heaven's own
Every child deserves a home
Deserves a home

They are out there by the millions
Hurting children without hope
Little boys and girls who need a family
That they can call their own

Now it's up to us to help them
We can't just close our eyes
Jesus loves the little children
And His arms are open wide
They are open wide

Every child deserves a home
Every child deserves to hear the words, "You are not alone."
Every life on earth is sacred
Every heart is heaven's own
Every child deserves a home

There's something in their faces that tells us their story
There's something in their cry that keeps calling out, "Don't forget about me."
Red and yellow, black and white
They are precious in His sight
Jesus died for all the children of the world

Every child deserves a home
Every child deserves to hear the words, "You are not alone."
Every life on earth is sacred
