

Butterflies

newworldson

You still give me butterflies when I see those big blue eyes
I can still remember how it feels to hold you tight
But I can remember too, all the things you put me through
All those times I wondered was I good enough for you?

Now I know you found another guy
But we never got to say goodbye

I don't wanna be a guilty memory
Just remember that you loved me
I don't wanna die before we say goodbye
Please don't be ashamed of you and I

You still wanna run and hide if by chance our paths collide
I can't stand to see you wrestle with your foolish pride
Watching you rush out the door
Nothing's ever hurt me more
Why can't we just go back to the way it was before?