

That's How You Know When Love's Right

Nicolette Larson

It only takes the slightest touch from you to send me
Like the soft steps of a midnight waltz you move me
So many nights I have the sweetest dreams about you
So many reasons I can't live without you

How can the moon tell the stars when to shine?
They already fill up the night
They shine even brighter with your heart close to mine
That's how you know love's right

It always comes from the place you don't expect it
No one ever set my heart on fire like you did
And all my life I never knew what lost in love meant
Until it happened to you and me that moment

How can the moon tell the stars when to shine?
They already fill up the night
They shine even brighter with your heart close to mine
That's how you know love's right

How can the moon tell the stars when to shine?
They already fill up the night
They shine even brighter with your heart close to mine
That's how you know love's right

That's how you know love's right
