Feels Like Home

No Use for a Name

It's too late to talk to you
And it's too soon to say good-bye
Listen where ever you may be
You still live inside my mind

Something tells me that you are free again In a place that feels like home

It's never easy to understand Why memories hold our hand But people let go