

Our Window

Noah and the Whale

Well it's four in the morning, things are getting heavy
And we both know that it's over, but we're both not ready
And you're talking like a stranger, so I don't know what to do
And I'm calloused and I'm cruel to everyone but you

Yeah the stars shining through our window
And the stars shining through our window
And it's been a while since I stared at the stars
Yeah it's been a while since I stared at the stars

Spring can be the cruelest of months
But bringing in your life
Yeah we're promising so much
Like the pledge that you gave when you said that you'd always love me
But we both know by autumn you're like the color of leaves

Yeah the stars shining through our window
And the stars shining through our window
And it's been a while since I stared at the stars
Yeah it's been a while since I stared at the stars

Well I don't think that it's the end, but I know we can't keep going
Well I don't think that it's the end, but I know we can't keep going
Because blue skies are coming, but I know that it's hard
