

Pain has awakened in the bowels of the deep
Restless friends of torment, from the pit they start to rise
Tossing twisting nightmares lock the dreamers in their sleep
And cheer the icy claw of madness smothering the lies of

Peace and rest in oblivion
Too long we were blind
Unhinged, the world
Kissed to death by the glory of god
Our senses sedated
Unhinged, the world

When the bells are ringing
To end all things
Will wake up and know
What the present may bring

When complacence has rusted
Through the core of our souls
Will we gather our wits and
See through the holes

Helpless human idiot clamor spreads across the stone
Lifeless deathless ignorance, immortal in our cells
Chanting anthems of confusion, the united are alone
Pathetic clueless primates stranded in the hells of

Peace and rest in oblivion
Too long we were blind
Unhinged, the world
Kissed to death by the glory of god
Our senses sedated
Unhinged, the world

Pain has awakened in the bowels of the deep
Restless friends of torment, from the pit they start to rise
Tossing twisting nightmares lock the dreamers in their sleep
And cheer the icy claw of madness smothering the lies of

Peace and rest in oblivion
Too long we were blind
Unhinged, the world
Kissed to death by the glory of god
Our senses sedated
Unhinged, the world