

When Julie says

Orange Blue

Some says that it's worth fighting for love,
Some says that God is dead,
But if I didn't speak honestly my thoughts
I swear to God I'd have regrets
My dream is obviously broken
And some words are unnecessarily spoken
Out, but like the breath of summer breeze
You kiss my tears away.
And I can't tell it it's worth singing all those songs
Just to prove my way is true,
'Cause no song in the world could ever
Show you the ways I feel for you,
My heart is endlessly on fire,
It's full of boiling desire
And if you can tell your love inside
I say I will do it, too.

When Julie says she loves me
She is covering up my wounds,
When Julie she loves me
The sky in my mind turns blue,
When Julie says she loves me
She says more than ever said
And when Julie says she loves me
I can sing a song
'Cause she'll take me home.

And all those selfish bloody things I did
They tell the things I wouldn't do,
And I know my guts like I know
That the world is green and blue
You give me
All of those reasons I need it's not Just one of those style seasons
And maybe I can show the weight of words
When I tell you thousand times

When Julie says she loves me
She is covering up my wounds,
When Julie she loves me
The sky in my mind turns blue,
When Julie says she loves me she says more than ever said
And when Julie says
I can take all my dreams to bed.

And Julie says she must admit that she's the one to blame, but like the breath of summer breeze
I'll kiss your fears away-when Julie says...
