

Death of Aquarius

Orange Goblin

Lights out, silver in the darkness
Shadows of aquarius
Fading with the dawn
Freedom, banished from utopia
Exiled to hysteria
A new age is born
Night follows day as life flitters away
On the quest for the ultimate high
Ride for tomorrow, we beg steal borrow
To be where the earth meets the skies

Vengeance, religion of the outlaw
The honour that you die for
The clearing of the mist
Martys, the children and the stardust
Become one with the universe
The order of the fist
Carry the burden for chaos and order
The blame always laid at your doom
You reap what you sow, it's the outlaw you know
When you've chosen to live by the sword

Scar them, brand them as the outcast
The faithless and the hopeless, the faceless in the flames
Hound them, hound them ever after
No gods and no masters no duties no shame
Lights out, silver in the darkness
Shadows of aquarius, fading with the dawn
Freedom, banished from utopia
Exiled to hysteria, a new age is born
Vengeance, religion of the outlaw
The honour that you die for, the clearing of the mist
Martys, the children and the stardust
Become one with the universe, the order of the fist
Scar them, brand them as the outcast
The faithless and the hopeless, the faceless in the flames
Hound them, hound them ever after
No gods and no masters no duties no shame
