

Creed Of Ulfilas

Orpheus

The unbegotten son,
The question of ages,
Few centuries now mark his grave,
He who brings hope to all, who's origin stays in doubt,
Now swiftly brings their fall,
Believe, in one,
The council is undone,

The Creed Of Ulfilas
Scripture, Which stands the test of time,
Clouded in uncertainty,
They follow suit through time,
They defend the faith.

The united crumble, each man for his own,
One man cries allegiance,
Guarded by the throne,
The people of the land,
To execute the right,
Seek to destroy the holy ghost,
Believe, in one,
The council is undone.

The Creed Of Ulfilas
Scripture, Which stands the test of time,
Clouded in uncertainty,
They follow suit through time,
They defend the faith.

Now mark my words,
The end draws near,
This fatal bickering will spread the blood along the walls,
Only when all are one,
Will this fight truly end,
The mortal suffering is but just one more step to,
Believe, in one,
The council is undone.
