

Remember This

Out Of The Grey

When you sing, the sound disappears as it moves through the air
But the music still rings in you ears
When you laugh, the feelings release and they soon fade away
But you know that the laughter was real
When you wish you could capture this moment and hold it inside

Remember this, beyond this moment the love of God exists
When the music fades and your feelings change
You must remember this, when today becomes tomorrow
This is my only wish, remember this

When you hear each word ringing true as if written for you
Keep their meaning in your memory
When you know beyond any doubt, this is true love you found
Don't forget it when the passion fades
When you wish you could capture this moment and hold it inside

Remember this, beyond this moment the love of God exists
When the music fades and your feelings change
You must remember this, when today becomes tomorrow
This is my only wish, remember this

Remember this, beyond this moment the love of God exists
When the music fades and your feelings change
You must remember this, when today becomes tomorrow
This is my only wish, remember this, remember this Remember this, remember this

When the music fades and your feelings change
The love of God will stay the same, oh
The love of God, the love of God, stay the same
Does not change, oh, remember this, remember this
