Overkill V... The Brand

Overkill

Ride the wind son
Through my eyes
You'll see where you must stand

Remeber what your purpose is And that you were the brand

Awaken in me if you can
The deaths by one's own hand
Remember where you came from
And that you wear the brand...
You wear the brand

Blatant, born in fire
With little more to say
Than action speaks the loudest
And yield the only way
To quench the thirst,
Desire, swifter than the hand
In bloody fascination
His pride to wear the brand

Bend and twist and tear the will Show them where you've been A tribute to your Overkill A mutlitude of sin

Away-away no time to stay The union it still stands Willingness, donation We all display, the brand
