Envy

Pantheist

I envy Thee my Lord So many times I envisage myself Sitting on your celestial throne Looking at the world Through eyes of contempt and hate

Laughing at human insignificance Erasing their lives with a single thought

Let them destroy each other Cut each other to pieces Let them transform themselves into demons And project their wickedness to Satan My Lord, I envy Your apathy