Passenger

Well I've not seen Alaskan white and I've not seen Tokyo by night and I've not seen the northern lights But I have seen your wide eyes tonight

And I've not done all I could have done And I have walked when I could have run And I have lost all I could have won But your wide eyes reflect and move on

I have found a hole in my coat
I have found a lump in my throat
I have laughed at all my own jokes
But your wide eyes are like water to a boat

I have never packed my case

Gone underground or out into space

When my gaze rests heavy on your face

Well, your wide eyes are my favourite place

Yeah, your wide eyes are my favourite place
