

Goddess

Pentagram

Shining like moondust you will lies in trust
I know I can't reach you though our hearts burn with lust we both try and try and I start to realize your love is gonna linger as my life passes by and so I ask you this question I've got to know before the storm cries
Are you a Goddess from heaven or maybe just a holocaust in my mind's eye Sparkle like dew on a flower at dawn that's the way you land on me and make me carry on Gentle as the drizzle on my window pane
If I could only love you once I know I'd make you stay and still I ask you this question and babe I've got to know before the flame dies
Are you a Goddess from heaven
or maybe just that phantom rider taking me to die?