

Winter

Persephone

The moon relieves the sun
The landscape, white and peaceful
Seasons changed, I wasn't aware
Spring passed by, summer couldn't allay the pain
The last leaf has fallen
In a cold winter's night

I felt hope and strength
I followed the lights, to find my way
In loneliness I made my songs
I never found, what I was longing for Flames lit my path
In a cold winter's night

Snowflakes dancing on my skin
Slowly they cover my face
My heart is frozen, I close my eyes
I can't feel the cold
Everything is so silent
In a cold winter's night

A gentle smile on my face
You were my only pleasure
I think of you, I always will
And when I die tonight
I hope you'll remember my name

I'm in a garden, in a land so far away
Trees in full blossom, the nightingale
She found her songs again
While mine are lost forever...

When I fall asleep...

In my last winter's night
