

Affectation

Pestilence

In an age of death and fear
They were frightened of sunset
Detest the dark when possessed ones appear
Disturbing the peace of the dead

A deterrent tale of reality
A story made of fantasy
Searching for truth, philosophy
Superstiousness, wittingly

I believe in the resurection
The return of dead on earth
Black magic and affectation
The phenomenon of death and birth
I believe in the reincarnation
Another life, another existence
Returning in a transformation
In a time in the far distance

Looking in those eyes
Death was instantneous
Insignificant skies
Affectation, unconscious

They have died a suspicious death
Kindle the fires around their graves
The curse is now to be said
To prevent becoming his slaves

A ritual by the insanity of humanity
Executed by scepticism and irresolution
Uncertain sureness caused by deficiency
Unprovable reality of the degeneration
