

All The Things You Are

Peter Schilling

A hundred times you've lost away
And faced the world alone
A hundred miles since you've been running
A hundred miles out on your own
The light of day is fading
The darkness leaves you blind
It's breaking your resistance
And giving you a sign

The past becomes the future
You'll find no place to hide
Maybe now you'll see the answer
Far deep and down inside

All the things you are
And all the things you'll ever be
It's a wonder
When the child within you is set free
All the things you are
Becomes the things you can't prevent
Left you wonder
Where the child within you ever went

No moments sleeps away
No laughter no tears
Frozen in the present
Lasting all the years

Faces from the past reminds you
Even after all those memories
Said goodbye's are all forgotten
Facing now your destiny

Now you're counting on the future
You've left the past behind
You're scanning the horizon
As the hands of time and wind

All the things you are
And all the things you'll ever be
It's a wonder
When the child within you is set free
All the things you are
Becomes the things you can't prevent
Where the child within you ever went

(Chorus)

All the things you are
And all the things you'll ever be
It's a wonder
When the child within you is set free
All the things you are
Become the things you can't prevent
Where the child within you ever went

The final hour before you
You face your little prince
And in his eyes you recognize
The face you see through coloured lands
A hero's greatest task
To searching self and then
To fight a thousand battles
And find his little child
Within
