On The Path Of Glory

Blessed are the meek, they say They shall win where others lose But when man is forced to stay, He is never asked to choose

He must fight for his country, Fight for what he thinks is right He'll defend his wife and children On the path of glory

Red or yellow, white or brown All alike, one thought in mind Who will wear the victor's crown? Never mind the lame and blind

In the pride of their country, Good will triumph in the end Evil will be brought to justice On the path of glory

Big or little, fat or thin All are heroes in the end Unforgivable, the sin To submit, they don't pretend

They will die for their country They will die for you and me Amid the pungent smell of death That's on the path of glory

Why should man be forced to kill? Why should they be made to die, Shattered on some peaceful hill Torn and bleeding where they lie?

Far away from their country, Ask yourself the question now Why should they be forced to set out On the path of glory?