

Diggin' through the Past

Pink Cream 69

expectation has become your plight a loosing battle that you're not prepared to fight Infatuated in what lies ahead convinced the future is hanging by a thread you wonder why time passes by

(But) you never got a chance to fly it's just another story told a fear of growing old...

recollection, digging through the past it give you comfort and you wish that it could last so now you question how to coincide the hard-earned wisdom with the carefree inner child

you wonder why time passes by
(But) you never got a chance to fly
a fear of growing old...
you wonder why time passes by
(But) you never got a chance to fly
a fear of growing old...

you tried to get the best of both worlds you tried to have it all you never had the feeling you'd be heading for a fall cantcha see your bridges burning the point of no return there ain't no way to prophecise something you should learn

you wonder why time passes by
(But) you never got a chance to fly
a fear of growing old...
you wonder why time passes by
(But) you never got a chance to fly
a fear of growing old...
