

Where I'm Coming From

Polly Paulusma

We shouldn't be alone in this place, it's a big mistake
What the hell we doing together?
Don't tell me it's a risk we take
My whole body's shaking like a leaf in stormy weather
Look up the clouds are rolling
And waves of soldiers marching to the broken beats of my drum
Look down the waves are crashing in and the waters rising
Going to cover up the sin we've done
Right here, right now, I don't know how
We kept it down for so long
Right here, right now, I don't know how
To tell what's right from what is wrong
And I don't know how I got here
And I don't know where I'm coming from
Where I'm coming from
Your fingertips are laced with gold
There's a honey magic to the way we stick together
And one ripple from your mouth can hold up the traffic
Making easily second last forever
Right here, right now, I don't know how
We kept it down for so long?
Right here, right now, I don't know how
To tell what's right from what is wrong?
I don't know how I got here
And I don't know where I'm coming from
Where I'm coming from
Where I'm going
Right here, right now, I don't care how
Just let these shackles come undone
Right here, right now, I don't know how
To act like nothing's going on
I don't know where we're going
I don't know where I'm coming from
Where I'm coming from
We shouldn't be alone in this place, it's a big mistake
What the hell we doing together?
And you'll never know how close we came
As a pair like case and see
See you later
