When the thunder rolls, lightening in the sky Do you carry on regardless even though you all may die ? And when the sun burns down, draining you of life Do you crumble in the desert; do you fight to stay alive ? So we ride over the mountains Over the mountains that stand in our way We will fly, higher and higher Searching for destiny. Where will I find my heaven ? Can it really be here on earth ? How can I know what's waiting ? How will I know what's meant for me ? When the devil calls, devil calls your name Do you run like little children, running from the game ? And when the evil lies buried near your heart Do you turn against your people, tearing them apart ? So we ride over the mountains Over the mountains that stand in our way We will fly, higher and higher Searching for destiny. Where will I find my heaven ? Can it really be here on earth ? How can I know what's waiting ? How will I know what's meant for me ? (solo) See the shadowland, hidden from the light Feel the terror rising on this cold deserted night Broken promises, not to be fulfilled Never trust a demon, never fall under his will.

So we ride over the mountains Over the mountains that stand in our way We will fly, higher and higher Searching for destiny.

Where will I find my heaven ? Can it really be here on earth ? How can I know what's waiting ? How will I know what's meant for me ?

Where will I find my heaven ? Can it really be here on earth ? How can I know what's waiting ? How will I know what's meant for me ?