Lightwave

Project Pitchfork

Day in and day out, you're moving You are standing head in the clouds Acting without emotion, you're waiting You' re saving, holding all back

Hating life for the weather On a weekend, free chosen feelings Are raining back down on you Your cage is too small for you

Here comes the army of light Open your heart, there will be no fight The sword is the word which brings you the truth The flame is the light inside your eyes

Here comes the army of light Open your mind, there is the fight The sword is the word, revealing the truth The pain comes from the lies, you hide inside

Day in and day out, you're moving You are standing head in the clouds Acting without emotion, you're waiting You' re saving, holding all back

Hating life for the weather On a weekend, free chosen feelings Are raining back down on you Your cage is too small for you

Here comes the army of light Open your heart, there will be no fight The sword is the word which brings you the truth The flame is the light inside your eyes

Here comes the army of light Open your mind, there is the fight The sword is the word, revealing the truth The pain comes from the lies, you hide inside

Here comes the army of light
Open your heart, there will be no fight
The sword is the word which brings you the truth
The flame is the light inside your eyes

Here comes the army of light Open your mind, there is the fight The sword is the word, revealing the truth The pain comes from the lies, you hide inside

Here comes the army of light Open your mind, there is the fight The sword is the word, revealing the truth The pain comes from the lies, you hide inside