

When All Your Fears Collide

Propagandhi

When all your fears collide, you'll watch the sun rise
But it will rise over ruin
Unveiling your crimes, observing the depth of your failure
The violation of humanity still burning in your mind
Your final offering is a tragedy that haunts you deep in the night

Infernos burning on the skyline
The neighbors are racked with distress
Ecstatic crowds burn a man alive
You're fumbling the keys to your door

When all is said and done, they're going to tear you apart
You feel yourself corroding on the inside

When all your fears collide, you're stumbling on this waste of life
Over top once breathing warning signs
You're alive but you are lost

All along they made you think that you would be the wolf this time
Their shadows stalk you endlessly

When all your fears collide, you're stumbling on this waste of life
No reverse, no rewind