I collect your lies Lives from all things rotten The root of all your sins Is written on my skin and bones Just accept your fait Your dooms already signed for By the pagan queen, coz You re painted by the flood "Say that you'd never go, That nothing can tear you away, I'm everything you want. Say that I'm all you need that everything stays the same Or I'll reep you apart" Climbing up the walls Trying to escape me But mother sees it all The mirror never lies, and Children, children hear: Never play with fire I will burn you raw Then tuck you in to rest And dream while your soul slowly fades into nothing Dream as your bones decomposes to dust Dream while you let your thoughts take you to heaven Soon it's to late no escape from your fate Then went to the party with a noisy attitude And they knew they were going to be pretty fucking rude But the lady ini the hallway were looking rather nice She said: "Welcome to the death row They looked at facil other with a sightly sens of doubt Then they entered the living room But their places at the table were taken one by one By them selves, then they knew they were replaced