Think Out Loud

Red Wanting Blue

If my mind had a mouth of it's own
Would it tell the world what I'm thinking?
Like I'm happy to find so many sides
I don't know whether I'm standing or sinking

But with all the ever-changing sides
I can't fill in the blank
And the answers question who's more right
I don't know what to think

So I guess I believe in whatever
I guess I believe in whatever they say
I guess I believe in whatever

Playing sides
My dramatic pause
I'm fighting loyalty here
But I'm happy to find
Happy to find
I'm happy to find that it's not only me in here

But with all the ever-changing sides
I can't fill in the blank
And the answers question who's more right
I don't know what to think
And with all the choices in this life
Who knows just what to think

So I guess I believe in whatever
I guess I believe in whatever they say
I guess I believe in whatever comes
And with all the sides and where they're drawn
I don't know what to think, I mean

Thinking, thinking out loud
Better start
Thinking, thinking out loud
Thinking, thinking out loud
Better start
Thinking, thinking out loud
Better start
Thinking, thinking out loud
Better start
Thinking, thinking out loud

So I guess I believe in whatever
I guess I believe in whatever they say
I guess I believe in whatever comes
And with all the sides and where they're drawn
I don't know what to think

So start thinking, thinking out loud
(I guess I believe in whatever)
Better start
(I guess I believe in whatever they say)
Thinking, thinking out loud
Better start

(I guess I believe in whatever)
Thinking, thinking out loud
Better start
(I guess I believe in whatever they say)
Thinking, thinking out loud
Out, out loud

Better start, better start, better start thinking
Out, out, out, out, out, out, out, out, out, out loud
Out, out, out, out loud
