

I'll Be OK

Reed Deming

I am diving headfirst, far as I can go
I don't know what's under the waves that crash below
But I know that I must do this for my heart's sanity
I hope that all these feelings will make sense eventually
And I hope that I'm not crazy, for I am so young
And I know I'm so impulsive, but I'm so in love
And so I look down, but solid ground has vanished from my feet
I am seconds from the water, I'm already in too deep to turn back

But the water from the waves lays a kiss upon my face
And pulls me in a warm embrace
And for the first time, I know I'll be OK
And for the first time, I know I'll be OK

I dive into the ocean, and I lay down my guard
I swim into the trenches, a muse within my heart
And I know I must keep going to the lonely ocean floor
All the sunlight disappearing, and I can't see anymore
There is something in the darkness, but I don't know where
I feel a pain deep in my chest, I desperately need air
And so I look up to the surface but it's too far away
And then a moment of realization, I know that it's too late to be saved

And when I can't take anymore, my lover pulls me to the shore
Holds me close and keeps me warm
And for the first time, I know that I've been saved
And I promise I'll never swim away
Now I know I'll be OK
Forever, I know I'll be OK
