

slowly, and all at once

Reed Deming

There wasn't just a moment that I knew
It was little things that added up to you
It was a night-
long conversation, it was a smile across the room
Now every love song makes me think of you

I didn't see you coming, I didn't see you coming, but I'm so glad that you're here
I'm so tired of running, but why would I be running when all I want is here?
Afraid that you would know it, but baby in this moment, I'm for getting all my fears
And I want you to know it, so I tell you all I feel

I'm falling slowly, and all at once
I'm falling slowly, and all at once
Every mistake and broken heart, I want them to lead into your arms
Now, I'm falling slowly, and all at once
I'm falling slowly, and all at once

I know it's hard to trust somebody new 'Cause I been hurt and I know you've been too
But even into the valleys, I will come running after you
There is no fire that I wouldn't jump into

I didn't see you coming, I didn't see you coming, but I'm so glad that you're here
I'm so tired of running, but why would I be running when all I want is here?
Afraid that you would know it, but baby in this moment, I'm for getting all my fears
And I want you to know it, so I tell you all I feel

I'm falling slowly, and all at once
I'm falling slowly, and all at once
Every mistake and broken heart, I want them to lead into your arms
Now, I'm falling slowly, and all at once
I'm falling slowly, and all at once

I get so lost in those eyes, they're like a garden of light
You're anchored inside of my mind, couldn't leave if I wanted to
I love the sound of your name and the sound of your voice and how much you care about people
I can't describe it, how much that I care about you
Baby, I'm falling, give me a call if you are too

I'm falling slowly, and all at once
I'm falling slowly, and all at once
Every mistake and broken heart, I want them to lead into your arms
I'm falling slowly, and all at once
I'm falling slowly
