

My Child

Regine Velasquez

Look at you sleeping so peacefully
You like a little angel heaven sent gift to me
I hold you in my arms and shelter you from harm
You know that you can count on me

I hold your hand when ever you scare
When you fall down I pick you up
I be there you never be alone
On some distributed road
I be beside you as you grow

One day you be so big and tough
And you may not need me any more
But that one thing that wont change and that for sure

You will always be my child
You will always be my baby
You will always be the one

I have love since you are young
And if even when you grown
I hope you always know
When I see into these eyes
You'll always be
Always be
My child

One day you'll be so big and tough
And you may not need me anymore
But there one thing that wont change and that for sure

You will always be my child
You will always be my baby
You will always be the one
I have love since you're young

And even when you grown
I hope you always know
When I see into these eyes
You'll always be
Always be
My child
