

Jules

Miller, Rhett

You have been mistreated in a most upsetting way
I came 'round, to break the town, not to save the day
There's no such thing as rescuing a girl as strong as you
But tell me dear, now we're here, what are we to do?

Jules, whatever happens I will kiss your sweet brown skin
Tell you all my secrets, and then tell them all again
No one else will ever know there's nothing we can do
Part of me will always be so in love with you

You had been adventurin' like you always do
I had come to drink some rum and keep an eye on you
We agonized and recognized what was meant to be There's happiness and then there's this, whatever this may be

Jules, whatever happens I will brush aside your hair
Banish all distractions and enjoy the time we share
No one else will ever know there's nothing we can do
Part of me will always be so in love with you

Who's to say this crooked way that lead me to your door,
Means any less than any mess I ever made before?
There's no such thing as rescuing a boy who broke in two
But if anyone could get it done, it would be you

Jules, whatever happens you will always be my girl
However the great the distance is, however gray the world
No one else will ever know there's nothing we can do
Part of me will always be so in love with you

Jules, whatever happens I am so in love with you
