

Not Too Late

Ricki-Lee

You remember those days ago
Thought we had it all
And we could rule the world
Living like, forever we were young
Oh, and every summer by the water
Stealing bottles, getting drunk all night
Listen to the same old songs, over and over
Forgetting the pain we hide
It's so easy to forget how we got here

'Cause we are, we are, we are all the same
And it's not too late to start over again
'Cause we are, we are, we are all the same
And it's not too late to start over again

The sun don't shine on my way no more
Everyday it gone, it's like an endless storm
But when I hold you close
I see the light again
If you come back, come back, come back
Maybe I could save ya
Time is a healer, so they say
But my hands are tied

'Cause we are, we are, we are all the same
And it's not too late to start over again
'Cause we are, we are, we are all the same
And it's not too late to start over again

It's so easy to forget how we got here
Life's just a maze
But you gotta lose yourself before you find your way
But it's not too late

'Cause we are, we are, we are all the same
And it's not too late to start over again
'Cause we are, we are, we are all the same
And it's not too late to start over again
It's not too late to start over again
